FALL OF SMYRNA IS IMMINENT

Capitulation of City Expected Before End of Present Week

SEND MORE WARSHIPS

Another Attack on Dardanelles Begun on Inside of Strait—Shells Grinding Away at Batteries.

London, March 15—The fall of Smyrna before the end of the week is predicted in dispatches from Athens.

More warships have been sent to re-enforce Rear Admiral Peirse, whose squadron is smashing away at the Turkish forts and the Smyrna garrison is reported to be preparing to evacuate.

Meanwhile another attack on the Dardanelles forts has been begun from inside the strait.

Mine-sweepers, whose work was hampered by the fire from Turkish land forces on the European side, have resumed clearing the waters inside the entrance under the protection of French cruisers.

Several allied battleships steamed into the strait early yesterday, according to Athens dispatches, and their shells are grinding away again at the land batteries.

The attempt to seize the isthmus above Bulair and cut the line of communication from Constantinople to the European forts has been renewed.

The super-dreadnought Queen Elizabeth, supported by several cruisers, is pounding away at the enemy's batteries from the Gulf of Saros. Parts of the allied expeditionary forces en route to the Dardanelles, will be landed near Bulair it is believed at Athens if the Queen Elizabeth succeeds in silencing Bulair's guns.

Dispatches from Sofia bring more reports of panicky conditions in Constantinople. Refugees declare it has been positively decided by the Turkish government to remove the capital to Eski Shehr, in Asia Minor.

The bullet entered Mrs. Bruhn's left ear and lodged in her head. At the Stetson Hospital her condition was considered so critical that Magistrate Scott was summoned to take an ante-mortem statement. NEWS OF THE DAY

Four boys and one man were killed, and two women and three men were injured, in an explosion which wrecked the two-story brick and concrete building occupied by the Crew-Levick Company, at Montauk and Atlantic Avenues, Brooklyn, shortly before noon Saturday. The four boys, who were killed, were playing in a yard beside the building when it occurred.

The Atlantic Coast line "Florida Special" narrowly escaped serious disaster Saturday morning, when with John D. Rockefeller and Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., on board, it crashed through an open switch at Milford and collided violently with a freight train. The engine, tender, baggage car and another of the express train were badly damaged. Another car left the track, but the Rockefellers, occupying a Pullman fifth from the front of the train, were only shaken up. A special train was made up and brought the passengers into Washington, where the Rockefeller party changed to the train for New York.

Major Miles M. Martin, corporation lawyer of Richmond, and former chairman of the Democratic Committee of that city, has been appointed by President Wilson to be United States District Attorney at San Juan, Porto Rico, vice William M. Landers, resigned.

When the day's crop of envelopes at the Billy Sunday meetings in Philadelphia was collected together last night it was found that 10 large wires waste-paper baskets were required to hold the offerings.

The Chinese Government has lodged a protest with the German Legation concerning the activities of Captain Rabe von Pappenheim, German military attache at Peking, and has ordered his arrest. At the Russian Legation it is said that Captain von Pappenheim, who went to Manchuria some time ago ostensibly on a hunting expedition, in reality was endeavoring to incite the natives to cut the trans-Siberian railway.

Private letters from Vienna say that the poorer classes in that city are suffering acutely on account of the scarcity of food. Meat has long since disappeared from their tables. Bread is scarce and high in price, it being almost impossible to buy flour Lard costs more than butter. Although eggs, milk and butter have risen greatly in price, it probably will become still more difficult to obtain them in the near future, as farmers are unable to procure fodder, and are killing their cows and chickens.

The destruction of a Zeppelin airship in the vicinity of Tirlemont on March 11, says the Paris Matin's Havre correspondent, was the work of two French and two English aeroplanes. The statement that it fell during a storm is denied. Nine members of the crew of 41 aboard the aircraft are reported to have been found dead, while 29 were so badly injured they died the next day. The wrecking of a German hydroplane off the Danish coast is reported in a telegram from Copenhagen. It is said that the crew of the airship was rescued by Danish fishing boats.

CARLIN MAY ENTER THE RING

Eighth District Congressman Urged By Friends for Governor

GETS MANY LETTERS

Alexandria Representative Has Made Brilliant Record During His Eight Years in the House.

Friends of Representative Charles C. Carlin, congressman from the eighth congressional district of Virginia, will not be surprised of his announcement as a candidate for governor of Virginia within a few days. Mr. Carlin had had the matter under consideration for some time and has received a large number of letters from different parts of the estate urging him to make the race. There are already three candidates in the field—John Garland Pollard, attorney general, Richard E. Byrd, United States District attorney for the western district of Virgina and J. Taylor Ellyson, lieutenant governor. It is also reported that Harry St. George Tucker, of Lexington, who was a candidate six years ago, will also enter the contest.

The following article in reference to Mr. Carlin"s candidacy appeared in Saturday's Richmond Journal.

Washington, D. C., March 13.—Charles C. Carlin the congressman from the Eighth Congressional District of Virginia, is seriously considering entering the contest for the governorship to succeed Governor Henry C. Stuart. A trip made by a correspondent over into Virginia and through a portion of Mr. Carlin's district, disclosed the fact that his constituents have almost made up their minds that he will make the race. Mr. Carlin when seen and questioned regarding the rumors afloat in his district, admitted that he had received many letters from his constituents urging him to run, and several from different parts of the State urging him to make the race and he freely admitted that he is giving much thought to the question and may within a short time announce his candidacy.

Mr. Carlin is believed to be doing most of his thinking along the line of considering what his chances will be against the three candidates already in the race, Attorney-General John Garland Pollard, Richard Evelyn Byrd and Lieutenant Governor J. Taylor Ellyson, and the probability that one or more of the trio will drop out before a year goes by.

Friends of Mr. Carlin are saying that the three other avowed candidates all being considered "dry" men and Carlin being unquestionably "wet he would secure the almost unanimous support of the quiet wet people of Virginia, which makes up a goodly sized minority. This however, he would not secure should Harry St. George Tucker decide to become a candidate, and in the event that Mr. Tucker did enter the race it would be practically certain that Mr. Carlin would not offer.

Carlin would have little chance of making a respectable showing against Pollard, Byrd or Ellyson, unless it became known in a quiet way that he was running as a wet candidate, as in many parts of Virginia, Carlin is almost unknown, while all three of the other have Statewide prominence.

But is should be understood clearly that Mr. Carlin has said nothing regarding the prohibition issue and that these facts were gathered from his friends.

Mr .Carlin has always been a "wet" man. When the vote was taken in the House of Representatives last winter on the amendment to submit the prohibition issue to the States Carlin was the only man in the Virginia delegation to vote "wet" with the exception of Congressman Montague.

The fact is not denied that there is a considerable minority of voters in Virginia still "sore" over the liquor question, who would vote for a "wet" candidate in preference to Ellyson, Byrd or Pollard, all other things being equal. But it is equally true that the " wet" element is not going to show its hand in any contest between now and November 1916, when the prohibition law goes into effect, for fear that more drastic legislation may be urged.

Nevertheless it is a fact that a large number of voters would vote for Carlin simply because be is a "wet" man, and for the same reason would vote for Harry St. George Tucker, but it would be a practically unorganized movement without any flare of triumpets.

It can be easily seen that if Mr. Tucker stays out of the race and Mr. Carlin enters, that providing Messrs. Ellyson, Byrd and Pollard all "stick" Carlin having the wet vote would have more than a chance. By the same reasoning shoud the "dry" trio stay in the race, Mr. Tucker, who was prominent as an anti- prohibitionists in the liquor primary compaign, would have an advantage be securing the united "wet" vote without urging the liquor question as a campaign ssue.

Charles C. Carlin was elected to the Sixtieth Congress, on November 5, 1907, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Congressman John F. Rixey, and has remained in Congress since.

For the reason that he represents the district lying across the river from Washington, he is not nearly as well known throughout the State as are any of the other Virginia congressemn. But over in his district his Democratic constituents swear by him. No matter what they want, jobs, seeds, advice or anything at all they come to Washington and call on Carlin, and he either gets it for them or gives them good advice regarding it.

When the correspondent went to Carlin's office he found him closeted with one constituent and nine others waiting to see him.

"Do you have them lined up like this all day waiting for you?" he was asked.

"No, about a year ago I found that if I kept it up I wouldn't be able to do anything else, so I make office hours here from about two to four o'clock when I will see them all, and the rest of the time I have to devote to the House or to committee meetings," he replied.

Carlin is the ranking member of the Judiciary Committee, one of the most important in Congress. As a member of that committee he held an important place in the passage of legislation since the Democrats came into power. He was chairman of the sub-committee of the Judiciary Committee, which drafted the trade commission bill and the three other trust bills, known as the "Three Brothers," and later passed as one measure. These bills were to prevent interlocking directorates in corporations engaged in interstate commerce, and amendments to the Sherman anti-trust law undertaking to define more clearly what were combinations in restraint of trade in view of the decisions of the United States Supreme Court on that question.

The subcommittee was composed of Congressmen Clayton, Floyd and Carlin, and it fell to Carlin's lot to carry on the co-operation between the Judiciary Committee and President Wilsonfi in the formation of these important bills. During the period of a year and a half or more that his legislation was in formation Carlin held almost daily conferences with President Wilson, and has a close friendship with the chief executive.

In factional politics in Virginia Carlin has belonged to what is sometimes termed the "organization " or "machine." But this line of demarkation is being rapldiy erased between members of the delegation as all have backed up the Wilson administration in every particular, have stood together on all national legislation, regardless of what might be construed as progressive or reactionary and have been treated fairly by President Wilson in regard to patronage, each member getting just about what he was entitled to, resulting in the absence of any hard feeling in this or any other regard for at least the past two years.

Announcement was made yesterday at St. Mary's Catholic Church that special prayers will be offered next Sunday for peace among the warring nations in Europe in accordance with a decree of Pope Benedict. This will be done in all Catholic Churches throughout the world on Sunday.

SPECIAL SESSION COMES TO CLOSE

General Assembly of Virginia Adjourns Saturday Afternoon

PASS ALL TAX BILLS

House of Delegates Disapproves of Method of Corporation Commission in Taxing Roads.

Richmond, March 15—Only the signature of Governor Henry C. Stuart is necessary to make the revolution of the tax system, under which Virginia's government has been conducted since it became a Commonwealth, an accomplished fact.

The special session of the General Assembly, called into being by the Governor, to revise the tax system of the State adjourned Saturday afternoon, and all the tax bills and a mass of others are in the hands of the Governor. All the bills affecting the tax system and most of those supplementary thereto carry emergency clauses and become effective as soon as signed. The House will remain in session constructively for six days to allow Governor Stuart to sign the bills.

At the end of that time the new system will be in force.

By an overwhelming vote the House of Delegates Saturday expressed its disapproval of the metnod of taxing railroad property employed by State Corporation Coommission. The House went on record to the effect that, in its judgement, railway property is under assessed for taxation and that the "State Corporation Commission has misconstrued the meaning" of those sections of the State Constitution providing for the assessment of railway property.

The resolution putting the House on record was offered just after the morning hour by Delegate Page of Albermarle. It is in line with the fight to increase railway taxes begun several days ago by Delegate O. L. Stearnes, of Roanoke.

In brief the resolution expresses the hope that the State Corporation Commission will value railway rights of way and other realty belonging to railway just as the real estate of individuals is valued.

Under the provisions of the segregation plan, counties and cities lose the local taxes on rolling stock and intangibles, which means that the (local) real estate tax rates will have to be, in many localities, increased.

It is the sense of the House that railway property (real estate) should be assessed on the same basis as that on which adjoining property is assessed.

If the State Corporation Commission follows the suggestion of the House, which is in the nature of a veiled command, railway taxes will be considerably increased.

The "Big Four" segregation bills, are as follows:

An act to segregate intangible property, insurance companies and rolling stock of railroads to the State for the purposes of taxation, and to segregate for purposes of State taxation real estate and intangible personal property.

An act creating a State Tax Commission, composed of the Auditor of Public Accounts, chairman of the State Corporation Commission and the Governor, to serve without pay, and local boards of review of assessments.

An act specifically segregating the rolling stock of railroads to the State for purposes of taxation, and fixing the rate of taxation.

An act specifically segregating intangible property to the State, and fixing the rate at sixty-five cents on the $100 of assessed valuation.

The General Assembly also passed the amended income tax bill, exempting incomes up to $1,200 instead of up to $2,000, and a number of bills making the State revenue laws conform to the new system of taxation.

All the important revenue measures, including the segregation bills, carry emergency clauses and take effect as soon as signed by the Governor.

FURTHER SUCCESS OF THE ALLIES

Steady Pressure Exerted on German Lines in Northern France

A BRITISH VICTORY

French Hold Half of Ruined Village Which is Said to Be Key to Wide Area in Flanders.

London, March 15—Further successes are reported from the allied front in Flanders and northern France, the general activity of the Belgian British, and French forces indicating that steady pressure is being exerted on the German lines at many points.

The British victory at Neuve Chapelle, acording to the official bulletin, states that the troops of king George advanced on the front about 1.8 miles.

A British war office statement says that the Germans delivered several minor counter attacks Saturday morning, and a very heavy one in the afternoon. All were repulsed. The total number of prisoners taken in three days was 1,720, while it is estimated that the total German losses were not far short of 10,00.

While the British infantry and artillery were thus in action, British airmen destroyed a train at Don, a short distance from Lille.

A detailed Paris account of the conflict over Vauquois indicates that a strategic point of much importance has been won by the French troops.

The French now hold half of the ruined village, which from its elevation and location is the key to a wide area.

At another point in the Argonne, between Ruor de Paris and Bolante, the French have carried 300 yards of trenches.

The French have also occupied Emberment on the railway midway between Luneville and Rixengen, on the borders of Lorraine.

In the Champagne districts the French say they have consolidated their new front by advances at different points and have firmly established themselves on the lines of crests captured from the Germans.

The Belgian army continues to gain ground at the bend of the river Yser in Flanders. According to Paris, the heavy artillery of the allies destroyed a point of advantage organized by the Germans at Dixmude.

The Germans have bombarded Ypres, Soissons, and Rheims. In the latter two towns the cathedrals have suffered further damage.

VIRGINIA GIRL VICTIM.

Philadelphia, March 13.—The arrest of an artist here yesterday disclosed an alleged white slave plot in which the intended victim was Miss Mary Bell, 21 years old, a school teacher of Richmond, Va. Miss Bell and the artist, who gave the name of Michael Angelo Risolia, were quarreling on the street when they were taken by Policeman McCallum.

Risolia had struck the woman in the face, and the encounter attracted a crowd of spectators. The artist and the teacher were taken to the police station and, subsequently, sent to the City Hall for a hearing before Magistrate Pennock.

VIEW THE ACQUISITIONS

Many Alexandrians Inspect Annexed Territory Yesterday Afternoon.

The weather yesterday was suggestive of early spring, and it brought many persons on the streets and suburbs. Nearly every Sunday, when conditions are pleasant, hundreds of persons saunter toward the west and northwest, many of whom visit the towns which in recent years have sprung up on our environs. The number of pedestrians was considerably argumented yesterday, and additional interest was added by the fact that a large slice of these new places is now under the jurisdiction of the city of Alexandria, and that the corporate bounds have been stretched considerably to the west; northwest and north.

Some pedestrians carried maps which they consulted at times in order to comprehend the lines which had been prescribed by the Court of Appeals. The summit of Shooter's Hill was the vantage point for numbers, who, like Moses upon the mount, could view the land, not, however, flowing with milk and honey, but with Hooff's run coursing through it and numbers of pretty residences comprising Rosemont, Braddock, Park Addition, etc. From the top of the hill the shimmering Hunting creek, the southern boundary of the city, could be viewed, as well as West End, which is also now a part of the city of Alexandria.

While some residents of these outlying places have been adverse to casting their lots with us, the majority seem disposed to take good-naturedly the decision of the Court of Appeals, and are prepared to accommodate themselves to the new condition.

Charles S. Price, a native of this city, and who spent early years of his life here, died in Washington yesterday.

The deceased was a son of the late William B. Price, who at the breaking out of the civil war, was Mayor of Alexandria. While in his teens Mr. Price entered the drug business with the late Henry Cook, who at that time conducted stores at the southeast corner of King and Alfred streets and on the south side of King street, between Fairfax and Lee. The subject of this notice went to Washington after entering manhood where he had since resided.

Escorted by fifty White Cuirassiers of gigantic stature, who never left him, he stayed three days, but the inhabitants did not know where he slept. Despite his efforts to appear cheerful, they noticed that he had aged and was dispirited, while his parting speech to the garrison, "If it costs the last man and cartridge, we will reach Paris, we must take Paris," roused little enthusiasm.

WESTELAKEN RESIGNS .

Peter Von de Westelaken has resigned the position of brewmaster of Robert Portner Brewing Company on account of ill health. Mr. Westelaken, who came to Alexandria from Baltimore about eighteen years ago to accept the position he now relinquishes, has always shown much interest in city affairs and by his effective work on the committees having public celebrations in charge, has contributed greatly to the success of those undertakings.

INDIANS IN THE CITY.

Twelve or fifteen Indians, part of a delegation of fifty-two who went to Washington from Oklahoma a few days ago, were in Alexandria today, having left the steamer Charles Macalster when she arrived at this port from Mount Vernon about two o'clock this afternoon. They walked up King street, attracting some attention. After remaining here a short time they took a train for Washington.

Visits from Indians are few and far between now, although in the days of the grandfathers of many now living they were familiar figures in Alexandria, especially on Saturdays, when they came here for the purpose of obtaining gifts and entertainment from whites. It was no uncommon occurrence to see an Indian come to the side window of a residence and make motions for something to eat, and many were entertained. They were often seen in our market area. But these aborigines have long since been forced far into the west, but they are seldom seen in this city, although some visit Washington occasionally.

ALEXANDRIA'S "HOME FOR THE AGED."

The ladies who have for years labored assiduously to continue the "Old Ladies' Home" as an Alexandria institution may not have met at all times with the encouragement which was their due, but the fact that they have, in the face of so many difficulties, continued the good work of this desideratum of any community, is we are persuaded, not overlooked by an eye that never slumbers nor sleeps. As has been stated, the institution will hereafter be known as the "Home for the Aged." The organization has elected officers and will continue its commendable work.

While so many appeals have recently been made to our good people for substantial aid to this and that worthy cause, the ladies in charge of the home have not always found themselves in a position to conduct their affairs as satisfactorily as they desire, but they have never wavered and have surmounted many difficulties in meeting the demands upon their limited resources. The building now used by them was never suitable for their purposes. It is, however, the best they can secure and maintain, and that they have done well under adverse circumstances is apparent.

They have during these dull times incurred obligations which they are anxious to cancel, while there are many things deemed essential which they have been compelled to do without in order to keep the institution going.

The building now used as the home is known as the "Herbert House," on the northeast corner of Cameron and Fairfax streets. It is one of the oldest structures in the city, and was a well-known landmark in colonial days. It is in need of many repairs which, under existing circumstances, cannot be made. The ladies have been using it as best they can for their purposes, but it has long been apparent to them and to all interested in the work that a more suitable place should be secured in which the old of both sexes could pass the advanced evening of their lives.

The much-needed hospital has taxed our citizens recently, and for this reason the lady managers of the home have not placed their needs before the people, but it is apparent that if it is the desire of the community to continue to maintain this essential to our city, aid should be secured.

This institution was opened December 1st, 1898, with Miss M. E. Monroe as matron. It has accommodated between twenty and thirty persons during the years which have followed. There are six inmates at present with two applications for admission.

The board of governors realize that it is imperaitve to seek another building for their work, as the present home building is to be sold. The management, as intimated above, desire to make the institution a retreat for the aged of both sexes; hence larger quarters will be needed.

The institution has been supported by the Associated Charities, small donations from churches and voluntary contributions.

Members of the Baptist, Methodist and St. Mary's Churches are at present among the inmates.

AN ANGEL OF PEACE.

Greece so far, has kept out of the present terrible war, and the wise leaders of the land of Homer may be able to steer clear of complications which might lead the country into this wholesale fray. An exchange contains a picture of the Queen of Greece. She is a sister of Kaiser William, and while her brother has for years rattled his sabre while conducting diplomatic business, his gentle sister prefers the olive branch to war. It is the general belief that King Constantine has deferred to her solicitations and kept his country neutral.

Queen Victoria many years ago was sitting by a window in one of her palaces when one of her grandchildren suddenly shot by her head. The child had fallen from an upper story window. It struck a coping and dashed out its brains. The effect upon the queen was, as might have been expected, distressing and with her nerves shattered and her sorrow unbounded she was made to realize that the spirit of the little one which she but a short time before had been fondling had taken its sudden flight.

It was a sad bereavement for the royal family, but in the light of present events the child escaped troubles which other members of that royal band are experiencing today.

The question is often asked, What would Queen Victoria and the Prince Consort say of present day procedures had their lives been prolonged? While they are quietly sleeping side by side at Frogmore their grandchildren are deluging the world with blood and devastating countries which less than a year ago were enjoying the blessings of peace and prosperity. King George, King William and Czar Nicholas have in their veins the blood of the English Queen and Prince Albert. There probably never was a royal couple more devoted to each other than Victoria and Albert. The Queen's consort was taken from her side when he was entering his forties. Victoria never recovered from this sad bereavement and her days of mourning virtuallly continued throughout the remainder of her long life.

The shades of Victoria and Albert are now looking down upon their grandchildren who have precipitated the most sanguinary war in history.

The Queen of Greece, their granddaughter, is playing a part more noble than that of the Spartan women who made bowstrings of their hair for their warriors. She is animated by the spirit of the late Ulysses S. Grant, who said "Let us have peace."

Japan has definitely modified her attitude toward China in the matter of insisting upon compliance with the demands she made upon the Chinese republic soon after the occupation by Japan of the German concession of Kiaochow.

In accordance with a special decree from the Vatican, Catholics throughout the world will pray for peace next Sunday. The day has been set aside for special sermons and offerings that the war in Europe may end. The Pope has prepared and distributed among Catholic churches his latest prayer for peace, in which he implores for "the end of the fearful scourge, so that discord might end and love alone might reign among men." Devotion in the presence of the blessed sacrament and reception of the sacraments of penance and holy eucharist are requested by the Pope as part of the day's observance.

BEACHEY IS KILLED

Dropped 2,500 Feet at Exposition Grounds Yesterday

San Francisco, March 15—Death came to Lincoln Beachey, world famed aviator yesterday afternoon when he dropped 2,500 feet before thousands of spectators at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition.

The accident which ended the life of the man who had defied death so long came when the wings of his new monoplane collapsed while he was attempting to right the machine after a perpendicular drop through space of several hundred ft.

The stress on the new monoplane was too great and one of the wings was seen to fly up like that of a wounded bird. In a flash the second wing gave way and the shining engine and propeller blades gleamed in the sunshine as the crippled machine fell.

There was no chance for escape, although Beachey and his collapsed monoplanse landed in the water of San Francisco Bay. The force of the fall was so great that the machine and its daring pilot were buried in the mud of the bay in forty feet of water.

He struck the water near the United States army transpor docks in a narrow patch of water between the monster transports swinging at anchor. Immediately a rescue crew was dispatched from the battleship Oregon, which was lying in the stream. After two hours the machine and body were dug from the mud by a diver from the Oregon's crew.

Beachey was found entangled in the wires of the wrecked machine. All of the bones in his body were broken.

Family Decide Not to Commit Body to Tomb for Several Days.

New York, March 15.—John D. Rockefeller and his son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., decided at the last moment yesterday they would not commit the body of wife and mother the tomb at present.

All arrangements had been made for temporary interment in the vault of John D. Archbold in Sleepy Hollow Cemetery. A hearse had been engaged to take the body there at the conclusion of the services, which were held yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. When all was ready the father and son tearfully pleaded to be allowed to keep the body as long as possible.

"We were not here when she passed away," said the elder Mr. Rockefeller in broken tones. "We want to have her with us until the last moment."

Their wishes were respected, and the body will remain in the palatial home at Pocantio Hills, probably for several days. It was stated last night at the mansion that no arrangements had been made for the funeral.

Sixty friends of the family were at the services.

Rev. Dr. Cornelius Woelskin, pastor of Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, officiated.

SUNK BY COLLISION.

American Schooner Rammed by Norweigan Steamer.

Newport News, March 15.—Barely escaping with their lives, the captain and crew of seven of the American schooner William J. Quillin, rammed and sunk off Cape Hatteras lightship Saturday morning by the Norweigan steamer Lally, arrived here that night on the latter ship.

Although the schooner sank eight minutes after being struck, she swung alongside the steamer from the force of the blow and the captain and crew climbed to the deck of the steamer as their ship sank beneath them.

Bearing 1,037 tons of coal, the William J. Quillin was bound from Baltimore to Jacksonville. The Lally was en route from New Orleans for Gothenberg, via Newport News, with a cargo of cotton and tobacco.

The collision, according to Captain R. F. Quillin, occurred at 2 o'clock Saturday morning under perfect weather conditions. Beyond stating that both the steamer and the schooner were showing the required lights, he declined to discuss the causes of the accident.

Part of the Lally's port bridge was torn away by the collision, the boats on that side were smashed and part of the foremast snapped off and the rail ripped off the full length of the ship. The steamer is nof at anchor in the stream.

KILLS ONE AND WOUNDS FIVE.

Shooting Follows Trial of Man for Violation of Labor Contract.

Pageland, S. C., March 15.—One man was killed and five others wounded, two probably fatally, in a shooting affray in the principal street of this place late Friday. The shooting occurred immediately after the trial before a magistrate of Arthur West for alleged violation of a labor contract. The case was thrown out of court, and the interested factions, it is said, clashed in front of the istrate's office. More than fifty shots were fired. J. W. Arant was killed and his brother, J. M. Arant, probably fatally wounded. J. D. Wallace was shot through the body. Arthur West was shot several times, his brother, Sheppard West, and John West, and John Robinson also receiving serious injuries.

The trouble is said to have arisen from an alleged breach of contract on the part of Arthur West, who, it was charged, had unlawfully left the employ of a sister of the Arant brothers to work for J. D. Wallace.

HELPLESS AS BABY

Down in Mind Unable to Work, and What Helped Her.

Summit Point, W. Va.—Mrs. Anna Belle Emery, of this place, says: "I suffered for 15 years with an awful pain in my right side, caused from womanly trouble, and doctored lots for it, but without success. I suffered so very much, that I became down in mind, and as helpless as a baby. I was in the worst kind of shape. Was unable to do any work.

I began taking Cardui, the woman's tonic, and got relief from the very first dose. By the time I had taken 12 bottles, my health was completely restored. I am now 48 years years old, but feel as good as I did when only 16.

Cardui certainly saved me from losing my mind, and I feel it my duty to speak in its favor. I wish I had some power over poor, suffering women, and could make them know the good it would do them.

If you suffer from any of the ailments peculiar to women, it will certainly be worth your while to give Cardui a trial. It has been helping weak women for more than 50 years and will help you, too.

Try Cardui. Your druggist sells it.
